

Beaver Creek Winter Culinary Weekend Returns Jan. 23 - 26, 2020

Synesthesia will return for second year, featuring an intimate concert with St. Paul & the Broken Bone BEAVER CREEK, Colo., Dec. 18, 2019 - Beaver Creek Winter Culinary Weekend returns Jan. 23 through Jan. 26 with new and returning events, an amazing lineup of guest chefs, and an intimate performance by St. Paul & the Broken Bones at the Vilar Performing Arts Center.

As in years past, Winter Culinary Weekend provides the unique opportunity for guests to take in the phenomenal skiing at the resort, connect with Beaver Creek's world-renowned chefs, meet visiting guest chefs, sip on craft beers, specialty cocktails, and wine. This year's event will feature a variety of new events, including the Art of Seafood & Sushi at Hooked with Guest Chef and James Beard Award winner Tyson Cole of Uchi, a Barolo-Barbaresco Master Class featuring oenologist Davide Pasquero and author Suzanne Hoffmann at the Park Hyatt Beaver Creek, as well as the return of Synesthesia. During Synesthesia, guests have the opportunity to savor outstanding bites, treats, and libations at the main event showcasing premier chefs from Beaver Creek and guest chefs from throughout the country. The tasting will be followed by an exclusive and intimate concert with St. Paul & the Broken Bones.

Beaver Creek continues to welcome extraordinary culinary talent from across the country to collaborate with resident chefs. Guest chefs this year include four-time James Beard award-winning TV personality and chef Andrew Zimmern, acclaimed restaurateur and television personality, Antonia Lofaso of Dama, Scopa Italian Roots and Black Market Liquor Bar, Uchi Executive Chef Tyson Cole, Josh Niernberg of Bin 707 Foodbar, Tacoparty and Dinnerparty, Giorgio Rapicavoli of Eating House, Grails Restaurant & Bar, and Spanglish Kitchen & Bar, Chef Katsuji Tanabe of Mexikosher and Barrio, and returning for the second consecutive year, Brother Luck of Four by Brother Luck.

A portion of the proceeds from this year's Winter Culinary Weekend will benefit Bright Future Foundation and the Community Market. More information on these organizations can be found at mybrightfuture.org and eaglevalleycf.org.

Guest Chefs:

TYSON COLE: One of the few American sushi masters, James Beard Award-winning Chef and Owner Tyson Cole is a passionate student of the Japanese tradition. Having trained for more than 10 years in Tokyo, New York, and Austin, he continues his path of study and experimentation each day at the restaurants in the Hai Hospitality family including Uchi, Uchiko, Uchib? and LORO Asian Smokehouse & Bar. Employing classical cooking techniques with a Pacific Rim perspective, Cole marries global ingredients with traditional Japanese flavors, resulting in inspired combinations of flavor, texture, color, technique, and style.

ANTONIA LOFASO: Best known for her many roles on Food Network, Bravo's Top Chef, and CNBC's Restaurant Startup, Antonia Lofaso is one of America's most popular and beloved chefs. She is currently the Executive Chef and Owner of Black Market Liquor Bar (Studio City, California) and Scopa Italian Roots (Venice, California). Her most recent concept DAMA (Downtown Los Angeles, California) has received rave reviews and critical acclaim since opening its doors in late 2018. In addition to her thriving restaurant businesses, Antonia is revolutionizing the hospitality industry's aesthetic by redesigning chef wear for style and functionality, through her brand Chefletics.

BROTHER LUCK: Brother Luck has led a diverse career cooking in places around the world including in Japan; Hong Kong; Chicago; New York City and finally in Colorado Springs where he would start Brother Luck Street Eats. There he was honored as "Best Local Chef" by Colorado Springs Independent and "Most Cutting Edge Restaurant" by The Gazette Newspaper.

In 2016, Brother was awarded with an alumni scholarship from The Gohan Society to expand his cooking and travel experiences in Japan, while the Joyce Chen and Helen Chen Foundation allowed Brother to extend his training and exposure into China—opportunities that have shaped both his cooking style and personal perspective. Since his global travels, Chef Brother Luck stepped into the role as an entrepreneur opening his signature southwestern concept, Four by Brother Luck; a modern Asian eatery, Lucky Dumpling; and campaigning his mental health awareness slogan #NoLucksGiven. Brother also has an impressive array of television appearances under his belt that include appearing on Food Network as a Chopped finalist and winning his episode of Beat Bobby Flay. Most recently, Brother was a favorite on the Emmy award winning Bravo's Top Chef Season 15 and 16 and cooking his way through the competitors on the digital series Last Chance Kitchen.

JOSH NIERNBERG: Josh Niernberg began his restaurant career in 1994, working nights while spending his days pursuing a career as a snowboarder, Josh had the opportunity to learn from and cook for some of Denver's most notable restaurateurs and chefs of the time. Josh met his wife and business partner, Jodi, and in 2007 the couple moved to her hometown of Grand Junction, Colorado. The economic downturn of the late 2000's hit the Grand Valley hard, which sparked the concept for Bin 707 Foodbar. Josh and Jodi wanted to create a restaurant designed to make a significant economic impact by creating a restaurant open twelve hours a day, seven days a week. With Josh as the Executive Chef and Jodi as the bar manager, the couple opened Bin in February 2011. The food, beverage and wine programs were sourced with the ethos of “local first, Colorado second and domestic last” and Bin 707 Foodbar grew quickly. At a time when “Farm to Table” had yet to be coined, Josh builds menus based upon product availability from the region as a showcase of Western Colorado and Colorado cuisine. In 2017, the couple opened their second and third restaurants Tacoparty and Dinnerparty. Like their original Bin 707 Foodbar, the restaurants showcase a unique sense of place intended to promote Colorado's Grand Valley. Josh's focus on menu creation and sourcing are driven by the mission to both explore and continue to define regional and Colorado Cuisine.

GIORGIO RAPICAVOLI: Born and raised in Miami, Chef Giorgio Rapicavoli has dedicated his career to championing Miami's culinary scene and inflecting his Argentine and Italian heritage into the city's rich melting pot of food and culture. The first-ever Miami contestant to win Food Network's Chopped, followed with a ranking on Forbes Magazine's 30 Under 30 in 2012. He has also been recognized by the James Beard Foundation; in 2013 as a semifinalist for Rising Star Chef and in 2015 and 2016 as a semifinalist for Best Chef: South. The lauded chef was also a nominee for Food & Wine's “The People's Best New Chef” in 2014. Rapicavoli trained under Miami chefs Adam Votaw and Robin Haas before becoming executive chef at Chispa Doral at just 21. He honed his skills during a three-year executive chef stint at 660 at The Angler's Miami Beach before opening his famed pop-up Eating House in 2012. After the success of the pop-up, Rapicavoli reopened the same concept as a standalone restaurant. In 2015, Rapicavoli partnered with the culinary firm Grove Bay Hospitality Group to open Glass & Vine in Coconut Grove's iconic Peacock Park, where his flavorful menu reflects his culinary and cultural tour of Europe. In September 2019 Rapicavoli opened Eating House in the Time Out Market Miami, followed by Grails Restaurant in Wynwood in October and Spanglish Kitchen & Bar in Wynwood in November.

ANDREW ZIMMERN: Andrew Zimmern is a four-time James Beard award-winning TV personality, chef, writer, teacher and social justice advocate. As the creator, executive producer and host of Travel Channel's Bizarre Foods franchise, Andrew Zimmern's Driven by Food, The Zimmern List, and Food Network's Big Food Truck Tip, he has explored cultures in more than 170 countries, promoting impactful ways to think about, create and live with food. In 2020, he returns to television with two new programs. Andrew is the founder and CEO of both Intuitive Content, a full-service television and digital production company, and Passport Hospitality, a restaurant and food service development company. He is devoted to his charitable endeavors and sits on the board of directors for Services for the UnderServed, Soigne Hospitality and Taste of the NFL. His life's work is exploring and promoting cultural acceptance, tolerance and understanding through food.

KATSUJI TANABE: Chef Tanabe comes from humble upbringings of a Japanese and Mexican heritage. Coming to America at 18 years old, Tanabe struggled to make ends meet. He lived a quaint life in Los Angeles where he shared a one bedroom apartment with his mom and sister; working multiple jobs to get by. Chef Tanabe's big break came in 2005 when he was promoted to Executive Sous Chef at Mastros and was later asked to appear in PBS' “Cooking Under Fire.” Since then, he has appeared on multiple television shows including Top Chef, Food Fighters, and Chow Masters. Throughout his rise to fame, Chef Tanabe stayed focused on his goal of owning world renown restaurants. Today, Tanabe owns 3 restaurants across North America with plans to open another in 2020.
